The rivers Severn and Wye were once home to many now long-forgotten crafts and skills. In The River Hobbler's Apprentice: Memories of Working the Severn and Wye Alan Butt provides a vivid insight into the forgotten world of the river hobbler, a unique trade and one which he learnt of at the end of its days. Falling through the cracks of society the river hobbler paid no taxes and made a living by working whatever was available on and around the river. Changing throughout the year, tasks included catching salmon and elvers, rabbiting, cleaning barrels and castrating piglets to name just a few. Each season brought with it hazards ranging from trench foot, lost fingers, pneumonia, tuberculosis and even the occasional drowning! This is a dual story in which the author seamlessly blends memories of the time he spent alongside hoblbers during his youth with the life stories of other river hoblbers. Tales range from falling in love

Austerity might be getting everyone else down, but Steve is waving his worries goodbye on another of his light-hearted trips around the picturesque English waterways. This time it's a bit different, though—he's not just cruising with his cat, Kit, but with his long-suffering wife, Em, who's given up work and wants her share of easy living, too. They've rented out their home and there's no going back now as they cruise from the historic River Thames, through the Midlands, and westward into the hills of Wales, meeting a familiar cast of eccentrics and oddballs along the way, and experiencing one of the hottest summers of recent years. But how, after life in a four-bedroom house, do they manage to survive together squeezed into a space the size of a shed?

Could it really be that what started as a means of escape will end up giving each of them everything they ever wanted?

George Callaghan was given free reign to explore his creative abilities after returning to his native Northern Ireland at fourteen years old. Even at that young age, he had a knack for painting, sculpture and making jewellery, and music—so it should be no surprise that he went on to become a leading harp maker. In this autobiography, he looks back at how he cultivated his creative abilities amid the harsh industrial landscape of Belfast, during the days of apartheid in South Africa, and elsewhere. He also looks back at: Belfast 's rich history of shipbuilding; life growing under apartheid; joys and disappointments of childhood; becoming a champion boxer; conquering the world of advertising.
